

18 March 2010

Hopkins launches anti-crime booklet for Keighley

A special information booklet offering advice to Keighley residents on how to help reduce crime in the town has been launched by Kris Hopkins, Keighley and Ilkley's Conservative Parliamentary Candidate.

The eight-page publication, entitled "Your Guide To Fighting Crime," includes tips on how local people can seek to combat criminal and anti-social activity in the community.

It also provides a list of essential contact numbers – including the local police and other relevant agencies – for residents to use in the event of a crime taking place.

"The booklet is my attempt to play a small part in assisting the people of Keighley to take on the criminals in our town," said Kris.

"I am not, of course, suggesting that anyone seeks to become a have-a-go hero or puts themselves or their family at risk.

"However, what I am saying is that there are a number of simple rules which, if followed, make it much more difficult for criminals to operate.

"I hope local residents find the booklet to be of use."

Kris and his team of volunteers are currently in the process of delivering more than 8,000 copies of "Your Guide To Fighting Crime" to homes across across Keighley.

ENDS